genres1. Field of the Invention

The present invention relates to a time-code multiplexing apparatus and method for multiplexing (time-code combining) image and audio

signals in, for example, a digital video tape recorder (DVTR) and, more particularly, to a time-code multiplexing apparatus and method for combining a time-code signal and a composite video signal for recording and playing the combined time-code and video signal on a video tape.

2. Description of the Prior Art

In a prior art, a time-code multiplexing apparatus, such as a time-code multiplexing apparatus disclosed in U.S. Pat.

No. 4,465,859 for example, a time-code signal (hereinafter referred to as a "time code signal") is recorded as a digital signal on a record tape, while a luminance signal (Y signal) and color difference signals (C-Y and B-Y) are recorded as analog signals on the record tape.

Therefore, the apparatus is inconvenient to set up and is not suitable for recording and playing a time-code signal and a composite video signal (which is not yet coded by time code) on a video tape. In addition, the prior art apparatus is inconvenient to use because, in view of its system, it has to be connected to a television monitor so as to be able to detect an uncoded or unmultiplexed composite video signal and time code signal. Moreover, it has a disadvantage in that it must be connected to an external circuit, such as a microcomputer, when recording and playing back a television signal. In addition, there has been proposed a time-code signal reproducing apparatus, such as a time-code signal reproducing apparatus disclosed in U.S. Pat. No. 4,845,764, for example, for reproducing a time code signal from a video tape in which a time code signal is recorded. The time code signal is reproduced by converting it into an analog waveform to compare its peak value with a

---

preselected reference voltage by a comparator to detect an unlocked state. However, this apparatus does not pay attention to the relationship between the time code signal and the composite video signal and is unable to produce an
