TL;DR It's a malware that when executed, will have a look at your drive and home directory contents, and the softlinks to all of your app files. Then, it'll wrap all the binaries inside a more-readable container. So you can use that for distribution, etc. What you need Any version of the Ionic Framework. The HyPHon 3-Master Installation Assuming you have the Ionic framework installed, you simply need to include the hyphon-plugin in your build. This is done by adding the following to your build.json file: { "plugins": [ "pluginForHyphon" ], "ionicApp": { "name": "YourAppName" } } Usage This plugin basically does the same as the iscroll plugin (a popular UI plugin for mobile apps). The difference is that it's a modular, containerized component. You can pretty much think of this plugin as an alternative to iscroll.js, in that it's built on top of the angular bindings for Ionic, and does most of the features of iscroll -- except for those whose functionality is not available on mobile (most notably: touch events). In particular, this plugin provides: 09e8f5149f
