Category:VestelWhat to Know More than 300 NYC area residents have been confirmed as coronavirus cases. New Yorkers are being charged $150 for the test and are required to see a doctor, if they qualify. The mayor also announced the city is ramping up coronavirus testing by adding 3,500 more staffers. Health officials announced they've been able to get 75,000 tests for the coronavirus conducted in the city, a dramatic jump that means New York's infected population is up more than 30,000. Mayor Bill de Blasio said while those numbers are encouraging, there is still a "dramatic challenge" ahead. "When we started testing it was 15,000 people. When we said by the end of this week it would be 30,000, that's a fourfold increase. That's a lot of people and we're not done yet," de Blasio said at a press conference. To deal with the "huge numbers," the city is ramping up its coronavirus testing by adding 3,500 more staffers and a plan to start capturing data about those who are being tested so officials can tell how effective the test is. The mayor also ordered that all city residents report to their health care providers for a COVID-19 test if they meet the qualifications. More than 300 people have been confirmed positive in New York's 5 boroughs as of Wednesday morning. Queens 3da54e8ca3
