Realflight Dongle Emulator 3.4.18

Realflight Dongle Emulator 3.4.18. Restore update Manager. Open the installed RealFlight Software. Google Anti-Virus, TDSSKiller, McAfee..Q: How can I access Redux state in one component when a component is closing? I'm using React with Redux. The component I'm using is relatively complex (it renders other components) and I'd like to access the Redux state in the component, when the component is closing. The code looks like this: class Menu extends

Component { componentDidMount() { this.props.onLoaded(); } componentWillUnmount() { this.props.onLoaded(); } render() { return (//bla-blabla ) } } class RootComponent extends Component { render() { return ( ) } }

How can I access the Redux state inside the Menu component? I'm trying to create a Logout button inside the Menu component that will only be visible when the component is closed. When the component is mounted, the user should be able to do something with the button that will submit a logout request and then close the component. I've tried using componentsDidUpdate() but without luck.

A: My approach is to use React-Redux shallow prop. I've used it in many projects and it works always. Here is example of how to use it. // example of nested component class Menu extends Component { constructor() { super(); this.state = { disabled: false, }; } _toggleSubmitButton() { this.setState({ disabled:!this.state.disabled }); } render() { return (
