Q: Performance issue in add-in installer I am developing add-in for Word (Not VSTO, but Office.js). When I test on Windows 10 Version 1809 and Windows 10 Version 1903 (x64), both are working fine on both machines. But when I test on Windows 10 Version 1903 (x86), it does not work. Error message said that it is possible to install this in only when x86. My question is that I've seen a lot of add-in with x64, but I don't know why it is not working on x86? add-in uses onChange event, and when I test on x64, it is working normally. But it is not working on x86. When I use the same add-in, it is showing error message. The error message is as follows: An error has occurred. Please try installing again. Error Detail: 'It has not been possible to install because of the following issues: 12041. (0x5854) The Install Package has a bad X86 execution mode for the target machine running this application. 11. If you have attempted to install a package and then uninstall it, please contact an Administrator at the Office client where this application was installed.'. Thank you for any help. A: thank you for reply. I found the answer. When I installed the add-in from the start menu, it is not working even under x64 platform. If I install it from "Extending" of Office application, it is working fine. But I cannot understand why it does not work when installed from start menu? Q: Mapping a 2d array of strings to another one I have a problem that I am pretty sure it is possible
