• Assemble a Party to Explore an Open World. At any point during play, you can hire up to three other characters to your party, allowing you to explore this open-world with a cohesive group. Your party members will assist you in uncovering the mysteries of the world, and in battle, can each perform their own special skills by consuming magic rings. • A World-Wide Social Network Whether you are playing in your room at home or across the world, other players can join you and meet together to chat using the global chat feature. • Customize your Battle Style. By equipping the weapons, armor, and magic that you want, you can perform a variety of customizations to your character. Whether you opt for a high-attack approach or a long-range, defensive approach, you can enhance your character's abilities by equipping the proper weapons and armor. • Enjoy a Variety of Game Mechanics. Learn various battle techniques to gain an edge in the battlefield. Battles are viewed from the perspective of the player's party, giving you the sense of being inside of a battle. Additionally, there are a variety of elements and effects that can be applied to battles to increase the action. • Use Multiple Displays It is possible to play the game using the four types of displays that has been announced. To enjoy Elder Tale, a download from the App Store is required. ※ The connection speed may vary depending on the individual device and network environment. ※ The game is not playable using two-screen mode. ※ The game is not playable using a device without external storage. Ask HN: Do you prefer documentation or a screencast? - gianmarcello I am making a small app that is going to use a lot of text to explain how it works. Do you prefer text over screencast? Why? ===== mindcrime I like to see the UI, but the example screencast (what I was referring to in my first sentence of this answer) was pretty nice. That said, I think you'll probably find most people here like seeing the UI, and as long as the screencast was high quality, it's not really that important. fileFormatVersion: 2 guid: 3f2fcb79c5f9d4439adc235bcc414e1 timeCreated: 1499898812 licenseType: Pro MonoImporter: serializedVersion: 2 defaultReferences: [] executionOrder: 0 icon: {instanceID: 0} userData: assetBundleName: assetBundleVariant: Q: Find the mean of the sequence $\sum_{n=1}^{\infty} \left\lfloor \frac{1}{2^n} \right\rfloor$ Find the mean of the sequence $\sum_{n=1}^{\infty} \left\lfloor \frac{1}{2^n} \right\rfloor$ and determine if it is convergent or divergent? I know that $\lfloor x \rfloor$ denotes the biggest integer less than or equal to x . The sequence is a telescopic series. Since the sequence is decreasing it is bounded below by zero and hence convergent. I know I can use the monotone convergence theorem. But I don't know how to get the sum to satisfy it? A: You are correct that the sequence is decreasing and bounded below, hence convergent.
