"The reason that I made it was because it was the only place that I knew of that was selling it at that time," Olsen said. "When I went in and bought it, it was for $25. And the 20 years later, I was like, 'Oh, my gosh, I'm already paying $25 for something that is also one of the most powerful pieces of technology in the world.'" The iPhone X, which has a starting price of $999 is basically a new phone that has a lot of Apple's popular features and technology to it. The biggest selling point is the fact that it has a super retina display, but it also runs a lot of iOS 12 features, like a completely redesigned Photos app, Home app and Apple TV remote. While the display is a lot better than the earlier models, that's not all Apple is aiming for with this new phone. According to CEO Tim Cook, Apple is aiming to completely disrupt the smartphone market. "I think it can be completely different," he said. "It can be as different as it is from a mobile phone that you have. The experience of doing things, the way it works, the way it fits in your life, it can be as different as the point of view of a car versus a bus." The iPhone X will be available at Apple's retail stores on the launch day itself, but you can order it from the online store as well. It will be available in Space Grey, silver and a new Rose Gold color. Ruth Thomson (born June 20, 1938) is an American singer and songwriter. In her early career, she was often accompanied by her husband, guitarist and producer Paul Siebel. During the 1970s and 1980s, she worked for CBC Records, releasing many English-language recordings of her French country-folk music. She was the wife of Paul Siebel for over 30 years. Born Ruth Thomson in Washington, D.C., United States, she began her singing career in 1964. Her songwriting partner, her husband Paul Siebel, produced many of her recordings and was the drummer for her band. Her father, Lloyd Thomson, was a career Air Force pilot who was shot down over Europe and suffered severe burns. His life was saved by a German shepherd dog named Parsley, whom he named after a song his mother had sung, "Parsley was a fiddle fiddler." In return, the dog had a metal plate welded into his jaw after a German air raid. Ruth and Paul had three children together, from left to right in order of age: Eric S. Siebel (born April 10, 1966), Stephen D. Siebel (born June 6, 1969) and Jamie Siebel (born September 29, 1976) Ruth and Paul were married in March 1979.
