Iron Fisticle is a roguelike game inspired by the fun of old-school beat 'em up games. Smash your way through wave upon wave of enemies and bosses, and get those last few points to pass your score milestone. Plus, collect rings and upgrade your weapon from the depths of the dungeon, just like in the glory days of old. You can even team-up with an ally to reach new heights. - Online cooperative and versus modes. Play with or against other players to beat the scores of the global leaderboards. - Deep procedurally-generated dungeons with a variety of enemies, traps and bosses. - Dozens of weapons to upgrade and improve your ability to smash foes. - Earn experience points to level up and increase your score. - Regain gold after being revived from the Death Trap and use it to buy accessories from the Salvage Shop to give you an advantage. - Fights in a dark and eerie world. Avoid bumping into enemy mobs at night so you don't run the risk of getting eaten. Went into this feeling like it was really well-made. But when i played it I was stuck with a boring AI. I didn't even finish the tutorial. I'm a bit...high-level, around level 7. The A.I. never actually let me do stuff. It's just something that stands in your way and it takes you to the inside of the enemies like a giant trash can. I also agree with the tutorial. It's useless in my opinion since I'm pretty high-level and it only explains what to do when you have like one or two weapons. I could find out the rest on my own. But if you're looking for a very easy game, then this is the way to go. You can find tons of Iron Fisticle-like games on here. It's just so bad to this. I'm actually almost at the top of the worldwide leaderboard. Heh. Did you know that you can play the game on mobile in a regular browser? On chrome it works fine for me. Right click the iron fisticle.js file and click open in new tab. That
