Features Key:

Quick play, easy to learn, easy to play

Like a traditional puppet, you push the puppet's arms forward, but you and your opponents arms move at the same time. Every push of the button is weighted, which makes the game fairly balanced

Organized game rules

You receive a curve for each win

Players scramble to beat other during a free for all session

A time control can be selected for whole session

Taking Pain into Account : How to make game less coercive

A few people play my No-Coercion site game online against their Steam friends. The game promises to be a very fair game where players have no skill advantage, but they move about plopped down at a fixed location. So being on the Top-1000 players have an advantage. Some are arguing that they win after pushing pain buttons all day at their computer

The importance of dendritic cells in the immune response to cutaneous mycobacterial infection. The importance of dendritic cells in the immune response to cutaneous mycobacterial infection is demonstrated in several respects. First, skin-associated leukocytes are important in the development of local immunity. Second, there is intimate antigen-presenting cell-T-cell communication. Third, imiquimod and related imidazoquinolines are effective inducers of local immunity and in the treatment of cutaneous infections caused by Mycobacterium tuberculosis and Mycobacterium leprae.

This is a small game which you can play with a touch. Just a quick side project I did with the above mentioned intent, inspired by some video game I played. Try it for free and play around, all for fun! Explosive Arena is an arcade game that uses explosive cannon fire to eliminate as many rivals as possible. In order to win you must eliminate the three opponents. There are two varieties of game: Puzzle mode and Rush mode. The puzzle mode uses bombs and the rush mode uses only explosive cannons. A delightfully goofy, unique shooter in which you defend your spaceship against an asteroid, shooting all of your enemies. Armed with a myriad of weapons, you must eliminate all of the enemies in your path to victory. You have been warned. Pick up the right weapon, and its time to show these computer space-sims who the boss is. Use your weapon to aim for your targets, and destroy everything in your way. Drive as fast as you can, but be careful or you'll crash, explode and die. Race to the end of each level, and defeat the computer. The game will be running for at least one month after the release. As long as the game will be available, you can download the beta version of the game and play it now! You can find the beta version in the app's "more" tab. You wake up in a mysterious place with no recollection of who you are and where you come from. From that point on, you will meet a lot of adventures

What's new:

- 52.00GB Play as the biggest-name Halo hero of all time with the best of the best: The Master Chief is back, bigger and badder than ever. This summer, I have been assigned to work in the laboratory of Associate Professor Steven Hamby in the Department of Computer Science. The goal of my lab is to detect schizophrenia in EEG signals. The long term objective is to be able to detect the onset of schizophrenia before the symptoms are noticeable, allowing researchers to intervene earlier. This means that our algorithm needs to detect similar patterns in the EEG signals of healthy people and patients with schizophrenia. To reach this goal, we are collecting EEG signals of people under controlled circumstances (in the laboratory), using an experimental set-up that records at 250Hz. The data is then cleaned up and segmented into bursts (at 1s resolution). Then, visual and mathematical techniques are used to search for frequent patterns in the burst data. Statistical tests are used to determine if the patterns are significant (between group) or if the patterns are significant (within group). The most promising patterns are reviewed by professionals in the field to ensure the pattern is not just a variation of the current best pattern. Once we have a set of promising patterns, we will apply our algorithm to more data to ensure that it can detect the patterns in large data sets. I have a wide range of topics that I'm interested in, so I have had to specialize as much as possible in order to ensure I get the correct feedback and help from my supervisor. I also have had to learn to calculate and create values manually
