Digital-only experience: Experience the endearing minimalism of the original experience of Dusk by playing on your Android or iOS device. A digital-only experience We believe that great gaming can only happen when a player gets a sense of ownership over a world. Our game has no physical elements to it; there's no box, no case, no controller... just a game on your phone! *Please keep in mind that Dusk is an experience where you take on the role of a mysterious Dusk character. Everything from gameplay to assets (and even the music!) are "built around" the essence of what we believe Dusk to be. If you enjoy Dusk but would be a little let down by this, we would be extremely appreciative if you would let us know! We'll be sharing more about the experience in future updates and finalizing a release date for as soon as possible. Game reviews will be published on the App Store, Google Play, and Amazon. As of today, we've had a successful Kickstarter and our tech has been proven sound. Thank you to all our backers for sticking with us and making this happen ingale Faulkland "King" Edward Stanley "Nick" Knight (June 26, 1938 - November 30, 2004), known by his ring name "King Kong" Knight, was an American semi-retired professional wrestler, manager and trainer, best known for his appearances with the Frontier Wrestling Alliance as a Mr. USA champion, the Canadian Wrestling Association for a few weeks as the CWA International Heavyweight Champion, as well as for his work with the World Wrestling Federation in the 1970s, where he was also one of the first green-lighted managers. His younger brothers, Boris and Dick Knight, were professional

He initially wrestled as "King Kong" Knight but switched to his real name when he started wrestling in the UWF in 1965. In the UWF, he had a series of wins as a face in the mid-60s along with Sam Steamboat, then known as Kong Steamboat and the Crusher Sullivan. With Steamboat and Sullivan, he won the UWF North American Tag Team Championship on several occasions. In 1966, he and Steamboat became Florida's first major wrestling promotion as Fairbanks Entertainment opened their West Coast territory which they called the Farallon Wrestling Association, and moved to Miami in 1968. But around that time, Knight took up manager duties for the Valiant Brothers and began working in NWA territories in the Midwest. He traveled to the NWA Omaha territory in 1968, where he defeated Bill Dundee to win a match for George Tragos and Lou Thesz at the Hildebrandt Arena in Omaha, Nebraska to become Mr. USA. "King Kong" won the NWA Omaha World Heavyweight Championship from Dundee on August 7, 1968. While still in the Omaha territory, he managed the UWF Western States Sports, a name he and Jules Strongbow used to compete in an Annual Cornhusker Tag Team Tournament at All American

Sports Arena in Kansas City, Missouri. In the Midwest, he continued wrestling as "King Kong" Knight and joined United Pro Wrestling in 1968 and befriended wrestler Ted DiBiase. Meanwhile, he returned to Florida. In the summer of 1968, Larry Hennig, Paul Jones, and Knight began broadcasting a full-time television show on WQAM-TV in Miami, known as the "Farallon Wrestling Association Timeshows".
