I think the error is not in the VHDL file, it has to be in the design file. In the VHDL editor I can only check that the value of the signal is constant, but it's a signal that changes value in the test bench. It would be great if you could correct this for me. The following VHDL code is a simplified version of the real part. For some reason I can't post the full code with 800 lines of my main and sub-programs (no pun intended). signal v_on : std_logic_vector(1 downto 0) := x"00"; signal v_off : std_logic_vector(1 downto 0) := x"FF"; signal v_tick : std_logic_vector(2 downto 0) := "01"; signal v_wait : std_logic_vector(1 downto 0) := x"00"; signal v_current : std_logic_vector(7 downto 0) := x"00"; My main/test program is as follows. library IEEE; use IEEE.std_logic_1164.all; entity main is port (clk : in std_logic; reset : in std_logic; tick : in std_logic; current : in std_logic_vector(7 downto 0); x : out std_logic_vector(0 downto 0); y : out std_logic_vector(0 downto 0)); end main; architecture foo of main is signal a_u : unsigned(7 downto 0) := "00000000"; signal b_u : unsigned(7 downto 0) := "00000000"; signal current_u : unsigned(7 downto 0) := "00000000"; signal v_tick_u : unsigned(2 downto 0) := "0000000"; signal v_current_u : unsigned(7 downto 0) := "00000000"; signal v_current_u : unsigned(7 downto 0) := "000000000"; signal v_cu
